Lehmo: "Christmas in Baghdad"

This is the Melbourne Comedy Festival! You want to have a laugh right? Then you can't afford not to spend $15 - $20 measly dollars on Lehmo's "Christmas in Baghdad" playing at the Capitol Theatre from 14th - 16th and 20th - 23rd April - 18th, with a preview show on the 13th April. The troops would want you to be there! And George Bush probably wouldn't - so go just to stick it to the man!!

About Christmas in Baghdad:

"Christmas in Baghdad" is about recent trip to the Middle East to entertain the troops. Baghdad is not everybody's idea of a relaxing Christmas location but Lehmo loved it. Hear tales of flying in black hawks over Baghdad at midnight, explosions at midday and afternoon gunfire. Hear inside stories of the fall of Baghdad, escaped zoo animals and the trashing of the cradle of civilisation.... Not to mention Burger King in Baghdad, Maccas in Kuwait, Subway in Basra and shopping in Dubai. The troops laughed and so will you as Lehmo takes you on his journey through the Middle East.

Who the Hell is Lehmo?

Lehmo is one of Australia's most experienced and widely travelled comedians. Aside from regularly headlining the top venues in Australia, Lehmo's superb timing and dynamic delivery have excited audiences all over the world from New York to Edinburgh and London to Johannesburg and Sydney to Kuala Lumpur, Hong Kong and Singapore. Lehmo is currently on SAFM's Breakfast Radio Show and his television credits are "Before the Game" and "Rove (Live)" on Channel 10 and the "Glasshouse" on ABC TV.

"A rare talent who hits the target every time"
